

Learning to Love Myself

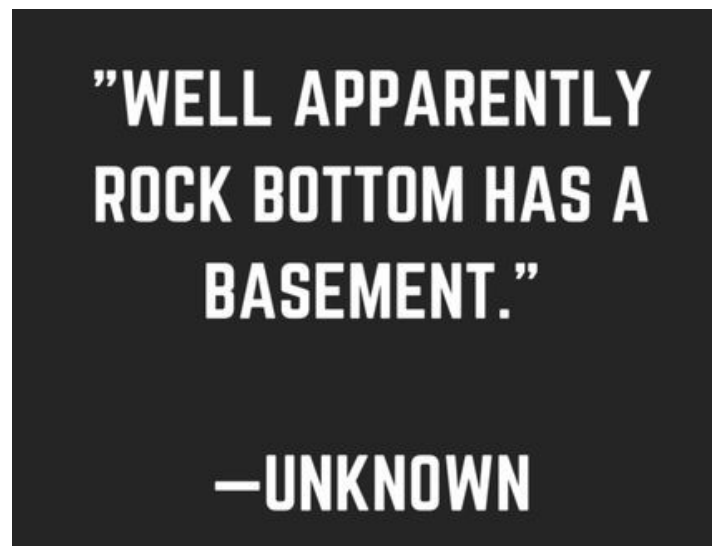

There have been several times in my sobriety where I sat in meetings and heard other alcoholics say things that were simple but profound that served as revelations of sorts. One of those times, I remember very distinctly, was when an old timer of 40 years shared that, in his experience, self-pity is a form of selfishness. When I am feeling sorry for myself, he said, I am putting myself at the center and not considering other people around me.

This idea really struck me hard, and I started to consider it from that day forward as part of my regular self-inventory process. I came to recognize that while a lot of my selfish behavior and thinking revolved around me trying to “one-up” my peers of varying sorts, it was rooted in a certain level of self-disdain and self-hatred that I had to make a decision to overcome. I would not take a compliment, gushing false modesty and belittling achievements of which I ought to have been proud. I would not respond with a simple “thank you” to anyone who would say a kind word about me.

How did I treat this ailment? I started saying “thank you” and meaning it. When someone complimented me, whether my abilities or my physical characteristics, I would smile and say thank you, taking a moment to appreciate that someone saw something good in me and took the time to voice that feeling. After a while, this led to me acknowledging the good qualities in myself and making a beginning at actually appreciating what I can do. Ironically, this greatly strengthens my ability to take self-inventory because only upon recognizing my good qualities can I build upon them and improve them, which pushes out those selfish, self-pitying impulses.

Tradition 2

The Steps are HOW IT WORKS.
The Traditions are WHY IT WORKS.

"For our group purpose there is but one ultimate authority - a loving God as He may express Himself in our group conscience. Our leaders are but trusted servants; they do not govern."

When I first read this, my reaction was, "Ok, and everyone has their own conception of God. (As an example, my higher power is one fabulous gender-diverse being that cusses and sasses and somehow conveys the wisdom I need to thrive) so how does this make sense in decision-making?" Then as I've come to look at this more closely, I see a riddle of the sort oracles would pose to seekers of their wisdom.

It is meant to not "make sense". It is designed to dis-organize more than organize. Or as Bill W. is credited as saying, a "benign anarchy." Why? This tradition requires not only that no singular being (or centralized group within AA) have power but also to make the power so elusive that a group must discuss, pray, meditate, pray again, respectfully disagree and discuss some more until a decision is arrived upon which that ENTIRE "group" can find resolution.

I am not a patient person (character defect anyone?). I am a person who really has no interest in leading; however, when there seems to be this ongoing lack of consensus (← you hear these words draaaagging out). I jump in to get the stupid meeting over with!! Ahh!

This helps nothing and no one. Nor does a hierarchical brand of decision-making. Having a God-centered power structure is precisely not a structure at all. It is a rather brilliant way to have a radically democratic power structure that REQUIRES its participants to defer to their highest and God-centered selves.

I'm just gonna say it: what would our country, our world(!), look like of Tradition Two was the beacon our leadership?

Self-support: Where money and spirituality mix!

Step 2

“Came to believe that a Power greater than ourselves could restore us to sanity.”

Man, do I love the wording of this step! I didn't notice the "could" until I was in the rooms for months. Not should or would or must or will not even most definitely, you can count on it! None of those.

What I love about this unsuspecting future tense of the verb can is that it's fraught with possibility....vastness...tenuous hope....complete cynicism trumped by desperation.

We stare down into the unending void of the water well, which is certain to swallow us whole into death. With sweat pouring down our faces and backs, we decide we could do just about anything to stay out of the well's, our doom's, vortex.

This is the step that solidified my desperation. Sure, I was spiritual and didn't bring any religion baggage into recovery. But did I believe a power greater than me could restore me to anything? Uh, not really. In fact, my memory of this step is pretty fuzzy. I effectively skipped over it, I think, because I couldn't afford to entertain my belief. My belief in my being helped by anyone or anything was non-existent.

Here's what I want to leave you with. If you are a newcomer and the god stuff is tripping you up, this is the step you can lie about. You can say, "yeah sure, whatever" because step three, turning it all over, will happen precisely because some part of you did step two. Prayer does not require belief; it only requires action. Get on your knees and say "God, I don't believe you can do anything for me." Amen, peace out, have a good day. Just get on your knees morning and night. Let your higher power prove themselves to you and you might find you would reword step two to say, "would, did, and most definitely."

Intergroup Chairperson's Corner

Hi everybody and Happy New Year!
 Hope everyone who came to the Alkathon had a great time! I know I did. It's always fun to stay up late at least one night of the year LOL! We had some great meetings, good food, and lots of coffee! Thanks to all those who participated and to the groups who volunteered to chair meetings. Especially those late night ones!
 Hope to see you at our monthly Intergroup meeting. It's always the last Sunday of the month at 1:00 @ the Triangle Club. We've had great participation, and visitors are always welcome. And if your group does not have an Intergroup Rep, then you don't have a voice in our decisions. Hope to see you soon.

Thanks for allowing me to serve you!

7TH TRADITION CHALLENGE

"Now that we are sober in A.A., the word 'support' has to do with sharing, people, self-respect, gratitude, and what we are privileged to give - not take - in material terms."

We are self-supporting through our own contributions ~ Many of our branches are suffering from lack of support (GSO, Area, H&I, Central Office). How much does one drink cost? If it were not for Alcoholics Anonymous, we'd be drinking plenty!

Drop the cost of one drink into your home groups basket when it comes by ... you can't afford not to!

DISTRICT 14*Serving Alachua CountyDCM Corner

Hello everyone,

There are several openings at the District Committee that need to be filled as soon as possible.

First is the Secretary position, which has a two year sobriety suggestion. The secretary takes notes during the meeting, types them up and sends the notes out to the GSR's and intergroup representative. A laptop, ability to type and ability to email is a must for this position.

The Accessibilities Committee also needs a chairperson and also has a two year sobriety suggestion. The Accessibilities Committee helps take meetings to those alcoholics that cannot attend a meeting and that do not fall under the corrections or treatment committee umbrella. Accessibilities Committee also helps the individual meetings in ensuring that their meeting space is accessible to all alcoholics.

If you want to know more about these and other committees and service opportunities you should attend the District 14 Service Fair and Extravaganza. It will occur on February 02, from 1:00pm - 5:00pm. The area Delegate and area officers, local committees and young people committees from throughout the state of Florida will be in attendance. Hope to see you there.
