

Clearing the Clutter: A Spiritual Fall Cleaning

When fall rolls around, I start feeling that itch to clean things up. I open the windows, toss old papers, and maybe even pull out the vacuum. There's something peaceful about getting rid of stuff that's just taking up space. It makes me think about how recovery works the same way. Step Ten tells us to "continue to take personal inventory and when we were wrong, promptly admit it." In other words, we keep cleaning house... not just the one we live in, but the one inside us.

Over time, little bits of emotional clutter start to build up. Maybe it's a resentment we didn't deal with, or a sharp word we wish we could take back. Sometimes it's fear or pride sneaking in again. We might not notice it right away, but soon it starts to weigh us down. Just like a messy room, it's hard to relax when our minds are full of old junk.

Step Ten gives us a way to clear it out before it piles up. I like to think of it as doing a little "spiritual tidying." When I stop to look honestly at my day, I can see where I fell short and where I did things right. It's not about beating myself up. It's about staying honest and free.

Some people write a quick list at night. Others do a little check-in during the day. I've found that asking a few simple questions helps: Was I kind? Did I act out of fear or love? Do I owe anyone an apology? Have I done something I need to set right?

If I'm honest, I can usually tell when I'm skipping my daily cleaning. I start feeling irritated, judgmental, or restless. I might replay a conversation over and over in my head, trying to prove I was right. But when I stop and take that short inventory, I feel lighter. It's like sweeping away dust that was blocking the light.

I've learned that humility and honesty don't make me weak. They give me peace. When I admit my part quickly, I don't have to carry guilt or resentment into tomorrow. And when I let go of control, I find that my Higher Power can do a much better job than I can.

Fall is a good reminder that letting go can be beautiful. The trees don't fight to hold on to their leaves. They release them and make room for something new. We can do the same in recovery. When we let go of anger, fear, and pride, we make space for gratitude, love, and peace. Every time I work Step Ten, I find a little more freedom. It keeps my spirit fresh and my relationships healthy. It reminds me that progress matters more than perfection.

So this season, while I'm cleaning out closets or raking leaves, I'll take time to do some spiritual cleaning too. I'll look for the places where I can admit wrongs, say I'm sorry, or simply start fresh. Each time I do, I find a little more light and a lot more peace. That's the real gift of Step Ten, learning how to keep our inner lives clear so we can stay connected, honest, and free.

Aloha O'Hana (Family), it's already November and a time of thankfulness. Our Gratitude Dinner on November 22 is one of the events that allows us to celebrate with each other. This is also the fundraising event for Intergroup, which does so much for us. Not only District 14, but surrounding districts as well.

October 3-5 was our Area Assembly in Orlando. We enjoyed karaoke & an ice cream social & got a kick out of our delegate singing to the Dixie Chicks. If you could not make this one, start off 2026 with Area Assembly on Jan 2-4 along with registering for it now. We had a Service Fair "Giddy up and Serve, Partna" October 25th, as I write this, your district needs YOU, to carry the message from one of these committees. (see pg 10 for which committees, when and where) and get INVOLVED.

Lawtey PPG is again hosting their 18th annual Spaghetti Dinner on January 10th. The theme is "Join the endless procession of sots." More information and tickets will be available soon. Stay tuned to aagainesville.org for future events & workshops. Feel free to call me with any questions or concerns. While we're on the topic of giving, feel free to increase your contributions to District 14 to help us continue to serve our community. Please remember to put your group & number on your check. If you need your group number, contact me & I'll get it to you. I want to leave you with my gratitude as I'm honored and privileged to serve as your DCM. You have given me many gifts in my sobriety and when I said YES, it opened my spirit and heart to receive more.

Mahalo for keeping me active.

"Mahalo Nui Loa", Thank you for your service and support!

Community News

We had around 33 visitors and sales at the Intergroup office in September. We get occasional 12 Step calls, but they are actually quite rare. It would be interesting to see the hit count on our website. I'll check with the webmaster on that one.

I participated in the Intergroup and Central Offices of Alcoholics Anonymous (ICOAA) conference, thanks to the generosity of several groups and individuals. I heard lots of creative solutions to increasing contributions through literature sales and special fundraising events. I also heard about lowering telephone costs. The best part of the conference was making person-to-person connections and learning about the special skill sets that other managers have.

My personal thanks to the following groups for supporting my ICOAA trip to Memphis: New Freedom $500, Wholesale Miracle $50, Sisters in Sobriety $50, Free to Be $50, Tuesday Night Step Study $50, Eye Opener $50, Starke Happy Hour $100. Six individuals generously contributed. My sincerest gratitude goes to them for their faith in me. Mark and I have yet to settle up and if there is any money left over it will go towards next year's ICOAA trip to San Antonio.

The Gratitude dinner is on November 22, 2025. We are having planning meetings every week in November. It's a wonderful opportunity for service so please plan to join us for our largest fund raiser of the year.

Yes, of course volunteers have to buy tickets! If you can't afford a $10 ticket ask someone to buy one for you or show up and check the welcome table. They will have a bunch of donated ones.

Thanks for supporting your local Intergroup office; and keep coming back!

In love and service,

A.O.

(gainesville.intergroup@gmail.com)

Alcoholics Anonymous has no opinion on outside issues; hence the A.A. name ought never be drawn into public controversy.

Tradition

Tradition Ten is one of those that quietly protects the fellowship from distractions. It reminds us that A.A. exists for one purpose only: to help the alcoholic who still suffers. Whenever personal opinions, politics, or outside causes creep into our conversations, this Tradition invites us to step back and remember why we are here.

Many of us come into the program with strong opinions about everything. We want to debate, explain, or fix the world. But A.A. is not a platform for causes or arguments. It is a place for recovery. The moment we take sides on outside issues, we risk dividing the very unity that keeps us alive and sober.

This Tradition does not mean we stop caring about the world around us. It simply means that within A.A., we focus on what we do best: sharing experience, strength, and hope. Each member is free to hold their own beliefs outside the meeting rooms, but inside, we set those differences aside for the common good.

Tradition Ten also helps me personally. It teaches me to practice restraint of tongue and pen, to pause before reacting, and to ask whether speaking my opinion will help or harm. Sometimes silence is the most spiritual action I can take. By keeping A.A. out of controversy, we protect its message and its members. When we stay focused on recovery rather than debate, newcomers find a safe and welcoming space where the only requirement for membership is a desire to stop drinking.

Step 10

Continued to take personal inventory and when we were wrong promptly admitted it.

Step Ten reminds us that spiritual growth isn't a finish line. It's a daily practice. "Continued to take personal inventory and when we were wrong promptly admitted it." Those words sound simple, but they invite us to live with a kind of honesty that doesn't come naturally to most of us. For many of us, drinking helped us avoid facing our mistakes. Now, in sobriety, Step Ten gives us a tool to face them head-on, before resentment, fear, or ego take hold again.

For me, Step Ten is like brushing my teeth. If I skip it for too long, I start to feel the buildup: irritability, self-righteousness, impatience. Maybe I snap at someone, justify my behavior, or start feeling superior. The problem isn't that I still have those feelings. It's that I sometimes forget to notice them until they've caused harm. Step Ten invites me to pause, take stock, and clean up the mess right away.

In the beginning, my inventories were long and dramatic, often done after something blew up. Over time, though, I've learned that Step Ten doesn't have to be a crisis tool. It can be a quiet, steady practice. A quick review before bed. A moment of honesty during the day. A deep breath before reacting. Sometimes it's as simple as saying, "I was wrong about that," or "I'm sorry for the way I spoke to you."

What makes this Step so powerful is its humility. It teaches me that admitting wrongs isn't about shame; it's about freedom. Every time I own my part, I lighten the load I carry. I stop letting small things grow into big ones. And I keep my relationships with myself, others, and my Higher Power clear and honest.

Working Step Ten also helps me see patterns. I start to recognize when certain fears or expectations are creeping back in. I can ask myself questions like:

- Was I kind today?
- Did I act out of fear or faith?
- Did I owe anyone an apology?
- Have I been patient and loving toward myself?

These little check-ins remind me that recovery isn't about being flawless; it's about staying awake to my humanity.

I once heard someone share that Step Ten is the "maintenance step," but I think of it as the "growth step." It's what keeps my recovery alive and evolving. Each time I practice it, I discover new ways to respond rather than react. I become more forgiving, less defensive, and more willing to learn.

In the end, Step Ten keeps me grounded in reality, not in who I wish I were, but in who I am right now: a person doing her best, learning to live honestly, and willing to keep trying. When I remember that progress, not perfection, is the goal, I can face my mistakes with grace. And when I promptly admit them, I get to keep the peace of mind and connection that brought me to recovery in the first place.

Monthly Meeting Minutes

October 2025

Meeting Opened with Serenity Prayer

Welcome to new Intergroup Reps: JM from Lawtey Primary Purpose Group.

Chair Report, AB: Continues to visit groups and share about Intergroup.

Alt-chair Report, SG: Elections for Intergroup positions will be held in October. Positions include Alt Chair, Alt Treasurer, Alt Secretary, and Alt POST. She is also working with AO to finalize the informational folder for Intergroup reps.

Secretary Report, JG: Minutes for August were reviewed and accepted.

Treasurer Report, M: Report for August was reviewed and accepted. M reported that GD has stepped up to be the Alt Treasurer and supports with the financial and treasurer duties!

Committee Reports

Phone Committee, Ellen: Not present. There is availability for some slots on the phone committee. A reminder that the sobriety requirement is six months. Please reach out to Ellen for information. You can text her at 352-359-2042.

POST, ME, Alt POST: Continues to work with MG and all is going well with the POST. Please send emails to POST@aagainesville.org so both MF and MG have access to the information. MF will be unable to participate in the Intergroup meetings due to a work conflict but will keep the group notified of progress with the POST and will be able to maintain his commitment.

Office Manager's Report, AO: AO continues to negotiate with AT&T on the phone system, which may include a cell phone instead of a land line. AO shared about the Intergroup/ Central Office of AA Seminar that she was able to participate in. One of the takeaways were the unique ways groups were fundraising; such as selling books at AA events. She is also looking at training someone to be the next office manager (an officer-manager-in-waiting), who can support her and take over the role when she needs to step down. Please let AO know if you are interested. Intergroup has a Venmo account and will send the QR code to MF to ensure it's in the POST and easily accessible.

AO also presented options for an updated insurance policy for Intergroup, which includes coverage for the Directors on the Intergroup Board. There was concern that the current insurance provider was unresponsive and it is imperative to have a policy and ensure communication with the agency. A motion was presented to allow AO to end the contract with Westfield Insurance and to begin the insurance coverage with the Non-Profit Alliance. The cost of the policy would be $2,700 per year. The motion was seconded, and all voted in favor.

Website Report, RK, Alt Website: Updates about the CPC/P meeting have been made. If you want your flyer on the Intergroup website, please send it to webmaster@aagainesville.org as soon as possible to ensure it's posted!

DCM Report, LM, Alt DCM: The workshop on steps 1, 2 and 3, organized by the Next Right Thing group on September 7 was a success and had standing room only! The next Assembly will be in October 3-5 in Lake Mary. A reminder that the Service Fair will be held October 25 from 2-4pm at the Triangle Club. If you are interested in supporting the fair, please reach out to LM. Everyone is welcome to participate in the District meeting the second Wednesday of each month at 6:30pm at Westminster Presbyterian Church.

Old Business: A reminder that the next Gratitude Dinner planning meeting will be October 5 at 1pm. PG will be the speaker. Still need a dessert committee and need cakes! Please let SG know if you will be bringing a cake. Starting in November, the meetings will be held every Sunday. Please reach out to Intergroup for details about the time.

New Business: SG brought up the idea of updating the Intergroup logo and wants to have a contest for the new logo, shared during the Service Fair. All voted in agreement!
